Household Resilience

prepare

respond

recover

If you think your life or the life
of another is
in danger always
call 999

Emergencies can affect anybody with little or no notice

Being prepared can help reduce the effects on people's lives, reduce the need for support from others and enable you to support the vulnerable members of your street and community.

Emergencies such as floods, fires, gas explosions and bomb threats may require you to leave your home for short periods of time.

Other incidents such as disruption to essential services that we all rely upon (such as water, electricity, telecoms and travel networks) or being stranded due to adverse weather or illness are not always an emergency but can affect our everyday lives.

If you are involved in an incident and believe you may be in danger always dial 999 and request the appropriate emergency assistance.

If however you are not in danger but may be affected indirectly, you may be advised to :

GO IN, STAY IN, TUNE IN.

Complete the following sections where required and keep your plan in a safe and accessible place in your home.
